HELD PRISONER IN DENSE WOODS

Miss Dove Meredith Had Terrifying Experience While She Was on Outing in Wisconsin.

RETURNED HOME LAST NIGHT

Party Local Woman Accompanied on Tramp Was Lost in Gloomy Forest 11 Hours.

Miss Dove Meredith's hair did not turn white, but after the experience she had in a dense Wisconsin woods while on an outing in Wisconsin, from which she returned last evening, it would undoubtedly have done that very thing if she had heard some of the stories of people who have been lost in Wisconsin woods, before she and a party of friends started on the tramp one day recently.

Miss Meredith shudders when she relates the trying experience she had. To be totally lost and cut off from all civilization for eleven hours with a small party of friends who were as helpless as she in a thick and gloomy forest was the most terrifying thing she ever passed through.

When Miss Meredith and her party found their way back to daylight, they were calmly told by the natives that their experience was nothing new. And then they heard stories of strangers who had been lost in the Wisconsin woods for days, and one story in particular was impressed upon Miss Meredith—one of a man who was stranded in the dense forest one night, and although he was unharmed, his hair turned snow white from fright.

There was no particular danger to the party, with the exception of the exposure that they suffered, because there are no animals which endanger human life to be found in the Wisconsin woods in the summer time. The grey wolf is there in plenty, but he is not considered bad, nor are the deer which are common there all the time. Ferocious wolves and bear haunt the forests there in the winter time.

"It was a sort of spitting providence that saved us from wandering through the woods all night after we had spent the day searching for a trail," said Miss Meredith this morning in relating the story of the perilous day. "We had a compass, but when we discovered we were lost we found that it was useless. The metal in the gun barrel belonging to one of the men in the party attracted the needle so that we could not locate any direction by it. I do not know that the compass, if it had been in perfect order, would have helped us, because a direction would not have assisted us much when we did not know which way led home.

"We worried and studied for hours and tramped and rested intermittently. We had a lunch with us but we never thought of anything to eat during the long eleven hours we were held prisoners. Not until we got home at five-thirty o'clock in the afternoon did we think of satisfying our hunger. We came upon a cranberry marsh once in our travels and we hesitated about crossing it, but in the end, when we saw a lake ahead and knew we were saved from a night in the woods, we had to cross one of those marshes. Every one of us fell in two or three times."

But the way the party found its way out was the most interesting part of the day's thrilling adventure. The man with the gun felt that he was to blame for them being lost, because the metal attracted the needle of the compass, and he believed himself duty bound to lead them out of the wilderness. He decided to try a

O. C. NORRIS' AUTO HITS DRUNKEN MAN

John Dubois of Milton is Severely Injured in Accident Near Con-nersville Fair Grounds

STAGGERED IN FRONT OF CAR

O. C. Norris' automobile struck John Dubois of Milton on the road leading to the Fayette county fair grounds from Connersville yesterday afternoon and severely injured him. Mr. Norris was driving to the fair at a reasonable gait, accompanied by his wife and Miss Harriet Smith, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Smith when Dubois staggered out into the road in front of the Rushville man's automobile. Mr. Norris tried in every way possible to avoid hitting him, but Dubois was in a drunken stupor and could not hear or see, and did not realize what he was doing. The edge of the fender struck Dubois in the left chest and raised a large knot there on his skin. Mr. Norris hauled him to the fair ground and called a physician. Mr. Norris stayed with the injured man until he was assured he was out of danger.

RUSH COUNTY BOY IS SENTENCED FEARFULLY HURT TO PRISON TERM

Wiley Meals Suffers Serious Injuries
When Belt on Clover Huller Bursts.

HAPPENS IN SHELBY COUNTY

Arm Caught Between Two Pulleys and Twisted Until Bone Breaks.

Wiley Meals, son of Frank Meals of near Vienna, in Rush county, was severely injured yesterday afternoon between two and three o'clock at the home of Charles McDaniel in Liberty township, while assisting in hulling clover, says the Shelbyville Democrat. A belt had slipped off of a pulley as they were feeding the huller, and Mr. Meals attempted to replace it. In trying to do so, the belt burst, striking him in the face, painfully bruising it and cutting a deep gash two inches long over his left eye.

The blow knocked him against the machine and his left arm was caught between two pulleys. The arm was wrenched in such a manner that the bone at the elbow was broken.

Following the accident he was taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. McDaniel, where Dr. W. C. McFadden was called to reduce the fracture and administer to his other injuries. When the physician arrived and examined the fracture, he stated that the injury was a very bad one and that it might maim him for life. It took two stitches to close up the ugly gash over the eye.

Mr. Meals remained at the McDaniel home until last evening, when he was removed to the home of his father. He passed a very restless night and this morning the injury was causing him almost unendurable pain. It will be several weeks before he will be able to use the arm again.

Several other men who were around the machine assisting in hulling clover, escaped injury, they being able to get out of the path of the flying belt before it reached them. The hulling outfit belonged to Frank Meltzer.

Zachariah Price is Found Guilty of Murder of Fletcher Cook by Greensburg Jury.

INVOLUNTARY MANSLAUGHTER

Will Have to Serve Term of 2 to 21
Years—Jury Out Nine Hours.

Zachariah Price of North Vernon, brother of Will Price of Rushville, and well known among Rush county people, was sentenced to the Indiana penitentiary for a period of two to twenty-one years in the Decatur circuit court at Greensburg this afternoon at one o'clock by Special Judge Thomas Davidson.

Price was convicted for the murder of his farm tenant, Fletcher Cook. The shooting took place on Price's Jennings county farm one cold December morning in 1911.

The case went to the jury yesterday afternoon and a verdict of guilty was returned at eleven o'clock last night, after the jury had been out nine hours. Mrs. Price collapsed when the verdict was read, but Price remained calm. The verdict was for involuntary manslaughter.

This is the second trial of this case which was sent from Jennings county on a change of venue. The jury in the first trial stood six for conviction and six for acquittal. Price's attorneys have not fully decided whether or not to ask for a new trial.

When Judge Davidson had concluded his instructions yesterday afternoon he called at once for the court bailiff and turned the jury over to him. As the twelve men filed past the defendant Mrs. Price broke down and wept bitterly. Great sobs shook her frail form and soon the daughter and even Zaek Price himself were weeping. The terrible nervous strain under which these people have labored for months, also seemed to visibly impress others in the court room.

Judge Davidson, the first thing after court resumed yesterday afternoon, commenced his instructions to the jury. This consumed an even forty-eight minutes and they were exceedingly fair to both sides. He explained that it was in the power of the jury to find on either one of four counts, first or second degree murder, voluntary or involuntary manslaughter; or if they deemed the evidence such, then they could acquit the defendant. In case they found for murder in the first or second degree then they are to vote for the death penalty or life imprisonment, as they shall determine among themselves. In case they find the defendant guilty of manslaughter, then it rested with the court to impose the penalty.

The court room was crowded on Thursday when Seba Barnes made the closing argument of the trial. He is a heavy man and, of course, makes gestures with great difficulty, but he becomes so enthused over his subject that he loses sight of self and fairly shakes his fist under the jury's nose.

He said that Price had no other alternative than to give himself up in this age of newspapers and electricity. He fairly yelled at the jury that Price did not want his way to the sheriff or justice of peace, but to "Officer" Maloy. Maloy is one of the counsel for the defense.

Mr. Barnes told the jury that there were three things that the defense could do in a murder trial. First, prove that their client didn't do it; second, prove that he was insane or, lastly, prove that he did it in self-defense.

The attorney said that defense ad-

FATE PLAYS PART IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Back Axle on B. F. Miller's Machine Snaps in Two Just After Fast Run

ENROUTE HOME FROM OUTING

Fate played an important part in saving the lives of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Miller on their return trip home in their automobile from an outing at Portage Point, Michigan. They had been averaging about thirty miles an hour to get home by evening. They had driven a few miles past Silver Lake when they passed a cross road which they believed they should have taken in order to go the shortest route home. About a quarter of a mile past the cross road they stopped at a farm house to inquire if that was the right road. They found it to be, and as Mr. Miller was turning the car around in the road, the back axle snapped squarely in two. They felt as if they had been saved from death or possibly serious injury by the turn that events took when they passed the road down which they should have turned. They left the car and came on home by rail.

WILL MAKE SUNDAY RUN TO RUSHVILLE

Indianapolis Motorcycle Club Coming Here For Few Brushes With Local Motorists.

ON RIVERSIDE MILE TRACK

The members of the new Indianapolis Motorcycle club have planned to make an organized effort to have the coast-to-coast motorcycle run from New York to San Francisco pass through Indianapolis, and to have its own members participate in the fast flying event, says today's Indianapolis News.

The club decided at its meeting last night to go to Rushville on its next Sunday run and to invite every rider in town to go along, whether a member of the club or not. Fairmount was also under consideration, but because of the distance it was voted down. The riders will meet in Monument place at 8:30 Sunday morning and Karl Schneider and John Merfz will be the lieutenants in charge of the run. Rushville has a mile dirt track and local riders will have a few brushes with the Rushville lads. No decision was made at the meeting last night as to a club location, the matter being left with the committee for another week.

CONSPIRE TO PUT WIFE IN THE PEN

Mrs. Alice Wolf's Attorney Charges
Husband and His Father Entered Into Agreement.

DETECTIVES SAY SHE'S GUILTY

After Legal Battle Indianapolis Police Judge Binds Rushville Woman to Grand Jury on Bond.

That there is a conspiracy on the part of George Wolf, confessed burglar, and his father, Joseph Wolf, of this city, to send Mrs. Alice Wolf, the burglar's wife, to the penitentiary was the charge made by Louis Flinn, attorney for the woman, when she was arraigned in Indianapolis police court, on a burglary charge. Flinn also asserted that the charges made by Wolf, that his wife picked out houses for him to rob and urged him to have nerve and "get more money," were fruits of the imagination of a diseased mind.

Judge Collins, without considering the assertions of the attorney, told detectives Frank Duncan and Fred Simon, who made the arrest, that the charge of burglary could not be made to prevail on the husband's statement. The law regarding the relation of husband and wife as a confidential one, precludes the possibility of Wolf testifying against his wife.

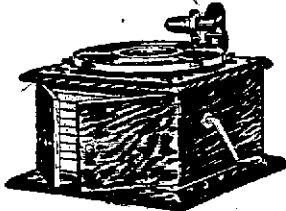

After the legal battle, however, in behalf of Mrs. Wolf, Judge Collins yesterday afternoon decided to send her to the grand jury on the nominal bond of $100. Judge Collins specified that no professional bondsman should be permitted to sign the bond. It is the contention of the detectives that Wolf and his wife conspired to rob various houses before they were married, which, if true, would not bar the husband from testifying against the wife. Attorneys for Mrs. Wolf objected because they said it could not be shown by other evidence than that of the husband that a conspiracy existed.

An unusual amount of interest seems to center in the woman who stood before the bench on the unusual charge. She cast angry glances at Duncan and Simon as they testified as to Wolf's statement. She became nervous and excited and whispered to her attorney frequently.

Flinn asserts Mrs. Wolf was not implicated in the case until after Wolf had been visited by his father from Rushville. The latter, the attorney says, wishes to insure the separation of his son and the woman forever, and refused to furnish money for his son's defense unless he implicated his wife. Flinn says this is shown by the fact that Wolf called for the detectives and told his story about Mrs. Wolf.

The detectives, however, say they are convinced of Mrs. Wolf's guilt. They prepared a second affidavit against the woman charging her with receiving stolen goods to-wit: One hat, worth $30. This hat, Wolf asserts, his wife ordered him to steal from the home of Mrs. Olla Marsh, 1412 East Market street. The hat ornamented with two waving willow plumes, was an exhibit in the case.

Attracted by the four children in the Wolf family, who are the children of Mrs. Wolf's former husbands, charitable women of Indianapolis are watching the case. Her attorneys said members of women's suffrage organizations of Indianapolis were ready to come to her aid if they are needed. The four children assert their confidence in their mother's innocence. The Wolf home in Indianapolis has been broken up by installment houses, which claimed goods there as unpaid for.

here that fifty American marines have been killed in Nicaragua.Washington, Aug. 30.—According to dispatches received at the navy department the acuteness of the situation in Nicaragua has been greatly moderated by events of the last twenty-four hours. Communications are rapidly being restored and the program of the American forces in opening up the country from the coast to the capital has been begun. Dispatches from Admiral Sutherland, who arrived Wednesday on the cruiser California and who has assumed command of the American forces, brought the most positive reassuring news that has been received from Nicaragua in several weeks. The admiral stated that a force of 500 marines and bluejack-ets, under command of Admiral Terhune of the Annapolis, is already at work repairing the railroad and telegraph lines between Corinto and Managua. When this work is accomplished and further reinforcements are sent to Managua, the admiral states that American life and property along the line of the railroad will be safe.Admiral Sutherland stated that the situation necessitated the placing of American forces at Leon and other places between that city and Corinto now held by the rebels. Commander Terhune has been placed in command of this force and his men are already on the job. They are repairing the telegraph and railroad lines which were willfully destroyed in places by the rebels to cut off the communications of the Americans. Terhune, the admiral states, will keep the railroad open to Managua at all hazards.The American forces now in Nic-ragua total about 1,000 marines and bluejackets. The reinforcements coming on the California will bring the total up to nearly 2,000, with several hundred more available on the several warships at Corinto and vicinity if they are needed.A dispatch from Minister Weitzel stated that he had just been informed by the government that another attack upon Managua was threatened.
A demand for the surrender of Corinto was made by a rebel commission on the 25th, according to a report from Consul Johnson at Corinto. The commandant refused and told the commission that the city was under the protection of the American forces. The next day the commission returned again to treat with the Americans in the name of General Francisco Vaca.
They were informed by Consul Johnson that the American authorities would permit no armed force to enter Corinto. To make sure of this probi-to a long railroad bridge near Corinto

a point between Hermosillo and Nog-

since been sought by rebel bands, who have declared they intend to avenge the death of their comrades.General Steever reports that disor-

Small bands are constantly raiding, mostly on the Mexican side of the line,
but sometimes on the American side,
according to the army officers' reports.

LESSON(By E. O. SELLERS, Director of Evening
Department, The Moody Bible Institute,

GOLDEN TEXT—"Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee the crown of life."—Rev. 2:10.The story of Hamlet and Banquo's ghost is no more vivid or dramatic than the story of the tragedy of John the Baptist."And King Herod heard of him,"
v. 4. Of course Herod would hear of the rising young cousin of John who was creating such a stir throughout Galilee. His coarse, sinful, licentious, heart cringed at the rebuke of such a life of purity, one that performed so many good deeds, one who was constantly ministering to others as contrasted with the life of Herod, who only ministered to his own selfish lusts. Small wonder he should exclaim, "It is John whom I beheaded," and one can hear in fancy the rising tide of terror that surged through his heart as he must have screamed, "He is risen from the dead!" The first three verses of the lesson are a vivid picture of how the fame of this young Galilean affected the conscience-stricken and guilty-hearted usurper upon the throne.Who was this Herod? In the first place, he was guilty of the sin of incest, for he had married the wife of his brother Philip, who was still living. From verse eighteen of the lesson we learn further that the bold and courageous John had rebuked him of this evil and as a result Herod had cast him into prison, and though he may have desired, yet he did not as yet dare to take his life. Added to this is the anger of a sinful woman.John a Just Man.This precipitated a war which resulted in the overthrow and utter loss of the army belonging to the father of Herod's lawful wife. Why did Herod hesitate to comply with all that Herodias desired? Verse 20 tells us, because John "was a just man and an holy." Righteousness is often a man's surest safeguard. Herod was not altogether devoid of conscience as we have already seen, and this is further evidence of that fact. Verse 20 adds that when Herod heard him he was "perplexed and heard him gladly." We believe that Herod was seeking some sort of a recanting upon the part of John, that he was glad (anxious) to hear from his lips some sort of statement that would justify his liberation and was perplexed over the persistence of John, who, though in prison, never for one moment lowered his standard of divine righteousness, nor trimmed his sails so as to catch the wind of Herod's popular favor. That this was John's attitude and that it was known to Herodias is evident from the beginning of the verse 21, "and when a convenient day was come." Herodias was all too ready and willing to seize her opportunity.To evidence her depths of depravity and also her anxiety, note that Herodias was willing to sacrifice the modesty of her own daughter to gain her end. The use of the word "herself"
v. 22 R. V., is evidence that it was an unusual thing for this daughter of a queen thus to exhibit herself.Now note the oath of the liquor and lust-driven king. What an appalling request. What a terrible consequence.
What lengths men will go to "keep their word" given thoughtlessly or uttered in the heat of passion. This is one of the blackest pictures of history. A lust-driven, licentious potentate, a rebuked but vindictive queen, slave of these same passions.Not Real Sorrow.The child of the home thrust forth before the gaze of the court to help secure the ends of a murderous mother.
A godly, fearless saint who had a great message from a great God, and without halting, hesitancy or compromise continued to deliver that message till stricken down in the midst of an orgy of passion. Herod's sorrow was not "unto repentance" (v. 26) but rather that of a guilty conscience.We need now to return again to the first verse of the lesson and we can well believe it must have been a sad wall, "He is risen" (v. 16). History tells us Herod lost his kingdom and that he and Herodias died in exile.Let us turn from this awful picture and look at John. How different. Thus dies he who was the greatest born of a woman. Thus died one who dared to rebuke evil in high places. One who would not compromise to save his life, and one who was faithful unto death (see the Golden Text). Can we hesitate to believe that John received his crown?A suggested outline for this lesson is as follows:I. A Terror-Stricken Conscience—
v. 14-16.

1. Jesus' name spread abroad, v. 14.

2. Men sought to explain Jesus, v.
15.

3. Herod's guilty conscience, v. 16.

II. A Wicked Woman's Hatred, v.
17-23.

1. The effect of righteous life.

2. Herod's downward steps.

III. The End of a Faithful Franciscan, v. 24-29.

1. Herod's wicked oath.

2. John's penalty (2 Tim. 3:12).

ties of conscience in tormenting bad men?(5.) If a man's conscience is clear, no matter how startling an event may be, is he ever likely to be afraid?
(See Prov. xxviii:1.)(6.) Verse 17—Why did Herod put John in prison?(7.) Is a good man always under obligation to prove evil even if he risks his life in doing it? Why?(8.) Is it the duty of a good man to reprove all the bad men he knows?
Why?(9.) Did John's reproof of Herod have a good or a bad effect upon him?
Give your reasons.(10.) In what way should we follow Christ's command, "Neither cast ye your pearls before swine lest they trample them under their feet and turn again and rend you?"(11.) Verse 18—Would you say, or not,
and why, that notwithstanding the results, John's action was wise?(12.) State the circumstances and say why it was wrong for Herod to marry his brother's wife.(13.) Even if an act may not be wrong in itself, is it ever wise, or not,
and why, for a person to do that which outrages the moral sense of the community?(14.) Ought a man or a woman, even for just cause, ever seek a divorce for the purpose of marrying another?
Why?(15.) Verses 10-20—When a person is reproved for his sin and does not repent how does he generally feel toward the reprover?(16.) If Herod had such faith in the goodness of John why did he put him in prison?(17.) How much virtue is there in doing some things that are right if the life in the main is wrong?(18.) Verses 21-22—What is the general influence of having big dinners or suppers at anniversaries in the home?(19.) It was a Greek custom after a banquet to have professional women dance in a mimetic and licentious way. What would be the effect of such dancing?(20.) When a man is under the influence of wine and a licentious dance what would you say as to the goodness of his resolutions?(21.) What is the influence today of drink and dancing?(22.) Verses 23-29—Would Herod have given the order to have John beheaded if he had not been under the influence of passion? Why?(23.) What were the steps that led up to the brutalizing of this woman's nature, which caused her to demand John's head on a charger? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

The Mission of the Twelve. Matt.
ix:35-x:15; x:40-xi:1.Christian Endeavor
By Plates*TOPIC FOR SEPTEMBER 1.The Christian Virtues. IX. Hopefulness. Rom. 5:1-5; 8:24-25. (Consecration meeting.)Hopefulness is valuable only when it has a foundation. Building air-castles is a useless occupation. But hope when rightly founded is an asset no one can afford to be without."Hopefulness must not be faint or half-hearted. A lukewarm hope is as bad as no hope at all. Turn a steam radiator half way on and it will merely sputter. Many Christians are only sputtering instead of accomplishing today because their hope is of the half way kind."Real hope is grounded on faith. That kind of hope is sure. It is bound to succeed in the end.We need more hopeful Christian Endeavor societies. It is so easy to lose the vision of the future and become discouraged in present perplexities.
Members have moved away, or finances are low, or the church seems indifferent, and we ask ourselves the question: "Is it really worth while after all?" What is needed is somebody with the right kind of hopefulness to point out the possibilities for the future.Hopefulness is the best kind of a spur to service. The man who can see the vision of a completed task will work twice as fast and as well as the man who plods on from day to day with his eyes on the ground. In Christian service, if we keep constantly in view the goal for which we are striv-ing, bearing in mind the definite promise of eventual attainment, we shall find success easier.Next Week's Meeting.

CUBANS DELIBERATELY PROVOKING AMERICANS

A Dangerous State of Feeling Aroused in Havana.

Havana, Aug. 30.—The leniency of the authorities here toward the reporter who assaulted Hugh S. Gibson, the American charge d'affaires, in first releasing him on his own recognizance, then re-arresting him on a protest from the American legation and again liberating him on the minimum lawful bail and the government's tacit endorsement of the absurd allegations that the United States is wantonly humiliating Cuba by compelling the payment of long overdue debts, is encouraging the newspapers into making the vilest attacks on Mr. Gibson and Americans generally. This is provoking a most dangerous state of feeling between the Americans and Cubans.

The editorial articles in the newspapers are mostly of a very gross and insulting character to Americans and the American government.

TAFT DEFENDS RECENT VETOES

The President Becomes Personal at Columbus.

THE USE OF THE VETO POWER

"A Good Executive," Says Mr. Taft, "Must Practice Individual Self-Restraint, Weigh What He Is Told and Then Do What He Believes Is True."—"It Is Well to Make Progress Slowly," He Says.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 30.—The series of ovations tendered President Taft on his visit to this city yesterday must have gladdened his heart. The president came to participate in the Ohio-Columbus centennial and the state fair. He was received with great enthusiasm. Within an hour and a half 5,000 persons shook hands with him at the statehouse, and when the line was halted full twice as many people remained waiting. It is estimated that over 60,000 persons were at the state fair. Nearly as many saw him while passing about the city streets.

In one of his addresses the president took occasion to warmly defend his recent vetoes and to uphold the veto principle. When he appeared in the grandstand at the state fair, thunder and long continued applause greeted him. The applause which punctuated his remarks, however, was noticeably weak. There was enthusiasm manifested by the farmers, however, when he referred to the proposed plan to bring about a credit system which will benefit the farmers. The president turned from the subject of farming by referring to Ohio's centennial, difficulties in government during its early history, and of the use of the veto power by Governor Sinclair. Then in referring to his own use of the veto, he said:

"I think I have used it moderately, though some of my friends do not agree. They have said that if I were a king and should do what I have done my head would drop in a basket. But I am not a king. I am a president elected by the people and representing a greater proportion of the people than any legislators. The president, therefore, is responsible to a greater extent for legislation which is passed than any other single person.

"The trouble with some legislation is that it is too much like the reformers who want every reform put into effect tomorrow morning before breakfast. It is well to make progress slowly, but to be sure we are making it. Change is not progress."

Concluding his defense of his use of the veto, he said: "A good executive must practice individual self-restraint, weigh what he is told and then do what he believes is true. God is on the side of popular government, and it is making progress slowly but surely."

Returning to the city after an inspection of the fair, President Taft held a public reception and then gave a few hours to political conferences prior to the banquet last night tendered him by the bench and bar. There had been 200 acceptances, a large number of those invited declining because they considered the cost per plate, $10, excessive. Governor Harmon was toastmaster and the guest list included many from out of the city.

OLD CRIME RECALLED

Convict Still Denies Knowledge of Father's Murder.

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 30.—A petition has been filed with the state pardon board by William Hull and Mrs. M. I. Keeper of Kilmundy, Ill., for the pardon of their brother, Samuel R. Hull of Gibson county, who is serving a life sentence in the prison here for the murder of his father. Hull was killed when driving his hogs home. The son was arrested and convicted. He protested his innocence at the trial, and has continued to assert that he knows nothing of his father's murder, which occurred fifteen years ago. The father and son had had trouble a short time before the tragedy, and the son was ordered to leave home and never return.

Another Aviator Falls.

Warrensburg, Pa., Aug. 30.—Aviator Joe Stevenson, who came from Mincola, L. I., to give exhibitions at the county fair here, was probably fatally crushed when his biplane dropped 100 feet, after his engine went dead.

Eye Troubles

Brief spells of dizziness, pain in the brow and temples come from eye strain. Glasses correctly fitted—perhaps just to wear while reading, studying, sewing or other close work may be all that's required for permanent relief.

Taken in time the constant wearing of glasses is avoided. Delay means serious eye trouble later on, expensive and painful operation or the loss of vision.

Sam Sanderson Says:

That it is strange that a fat girl invariably dresses in red.

interests of the people with trusts willing to pour their ill-gotten gains into the campaign treasury. For William Howard Taft is an honest man, a sincere man and a patriot.

For Labor Day.

The more conservative portion of the community has always regarded holidays with suspicion. They are considered times when the working-man gets lame playing ball if indeed he keeps sober enough to stand before the pitcher. The workingman's family is supposed to come home from their excursion headachy and footsore, unfit for housework and school.

Labor day and other holidays have always fared hard in the country districts. In the old days if the farm boy got off July 4 afternoon in time to go swimming, he considered himself lucky. Probably this attitude toward the customs prevalent in the more populous places has been one reason for the country boy's grudge at the farm.

Poor little Pippa, in Browning's poem, who only got one holiday a year, may have got it out of her greedy employers in the end, as she probably put a week's energy into the one day. There will never be any fewer holidays. You can recover in a day or two from an exhausting excursion, but one never recovers from the listlessness of feeling that life has no good times ahead.

The Gas City Journal is one of the weekly papers that the Indianapolis Star included in a list of papers that had abandoned the "independent" field to become "progressive." The Journal itself refutes the charge in a column article, the first paragraph of which reads as follows:

"In the Indianapolis Star of last Saturday. The Journal was listed as one of the newspapers of the state which had come out as an organ of the new progressive party. Where that paper got the authority for such a statement, we are at a loss to explain, but we want to emphatically say that The Journal is not the mouthpiece of the 'bull moose' party, or any other political party. The Journal is an independent newspaper, and proposes to maintain that position."

A. J. Beveridge is to speak in the Coliseum at Richmond on September 3. The last time he talked in the Richmond Coliseum the former senator was in such a high stage of spiritual exaltation that William Dudley Foulke, who had a stenographic report of the disquisition taken for his paper, and didn't print it, refused a public offer of twenty-five dollars for a verbatim transcript of the speech for publication in the local Democratic newspaper. The senator also did some stunts at the Wescott hotel which were almost too much for the wet nurse of the occasion, relentless rudolph leads of the Richmond Evening Bedlamian.

Gov. Deneen, who was an active and conspicuous worker for T. R. at the Republican national convention, says: "When the friends of Colonel Roosevelt refused to take any further part in the national Republican convention and announced that they would form a new party the same day, I did not feel that I was justified either in law or in morals in using the power conferred upon me by the Republicans of the State in forming a party whose chief purpose it was to destroy the Republican party."

There were Republican bolts in 1872 and 1896. By a coincidence, the Republicans won in 1872 by an electoral vote of 286 to 66, and in 1896 by 271 to 167.

If President Taft had had seven years in the white house with a republican congress at his back, he would have had a more effective antitrust law, and he would have enforced it. The truth is that the principal grievance offered by those who oppose him is that he has enforced the laws as he found them when he went into office.

Chairman Edwin M. Lee should arrange to have George W. Perkins of the steel trust cease conversation about the plentifulness of Bull Moose money until he can finish what he has to say about the necessity of taking up hat collections to pay the expenses of the Indiana organization.

An eastern magazine says they call him "Little Tom Marshall" in Indiana in the same way that they refer to the czar as the "Little Father" in Russia. The magazine is right as to the name they give him, but not as to the sense in which the title is conferred.

Flinn is substituted for Penrose in the interest of so-called reforms, and hence the State is known in the columns of the New York Sun as "Flinnsylvania."

In or out of office, Col. Roosevelt never seems to have any trouble in raising money. The colonel is not only a hard hitter, but a bully fielder.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

AFRAID OF FACT.

Says the Indianapolis Sun:

"The Hon. Jim Watson has issued a sweeping challenge to all comers to debate the regularity of the Chicago Taffie convention, which the Fort Wayne News and the Rushville Republican insists should be accepted by the progressives.

"Why should any progressive waste time in maintaining the proposition that Taft's nomination was stolen when the country is already convinced that such was the case? If Mr. Watson honestly desires to discuss the proposition, let him discuss it with the voters of Indiana, who understand the issues perfectly. "Indiana progressives are too busily engaged in organizing recruits for the progressive party who have come to it because of the flagrant frauds to discuss the character of the frauds with Mr. Watson.

"Watson's proposition is as ridiculous as that of the country evangelist who persisted in arguing with a sinner that he ought to become a Christian when the sinner had already declared his willingness to confess his sins and be baptized."

As a matter of fact, the result of the publicity given the Chicago convention is the greatest modern demonstration of the effectiveness of advertising, even when there is no merit in the advertised. The sensational charge of Mr. Roosevelt, couched in the intemperate language which he used, proved a great piece of news and newspapers throughout the country made the greatest possible use of it from a news standpoint, while the people of the country devoured it as greedily as they would have done had it been a sensational murder or a great scandal in high life. The fact that most of the Roosevelt contests were withdrawn as without merit, or that the Roosevelt members of the national committee and of the credentials committee voted unanimously that there was no merit in the Indiana contests, or that the Roosevelt Texas delegates had been picked out by Cecil Lyon without having consulted the people of Texas, was lost sight of and the violent attacks of Roosevelt and his followers held the attention of the public. The sensational headlines did the work and a great many people who read superficially were thoroughly deceived, gaining the impression that the Republican national convention was conducted in a most fraudulent manner. The advertising was effective, if sensational, and it will be necessary for the republican papers and campaign speakers to thoroughly inform the people of the truth of what actually transpired.

Facts are not always as interesting as sensational stories, as advertisers who are truthful and do not exaggerate, all learn. The sensational and untruthful advertiser may secure temporary advantage, but the conservative truth teller in advertising wins out in the end.

Editorial Notes

We have been expecting some one to suggest that if you can't go to the Bull Moose convention at Richmond, just send your two bits anyway. Georgie Perkins and relentless rudolph need the money, yo' know.

Table manners are not hard for poor people to observe. Oh, no sir! Table manners are those kind of things one uses when one doesn't eat—or say two or three or four.

"We are sorry," rather sorrowfully the Kokomo Tribune sets forth, "that Ringling's circus burned, of course, yet we can't help thinking it was a judgment on a show that had the temerity to cut Kokomo off its visiting list." Same here, kid, all the way round.

Tut! Tut! The Newcastle Courier says dog days always has to show its teeth.

WHAT WILSON SAID

"You know what the usual stand of the employe is in our day. It is to give as little as he may for his wages. Labor is standardized by the trade unions, and this is the standard to which it is made to conform. No one is suffered to do more than the average workman can do. In some trades and handicrafts no one is suffered to do more than the least skillful of his fellows can't do within the hours allotted to a day's labor and no one may work off hours at all or volunteer anything beyond the minimum. The labor of America is rapidly becoming unprofitable under present regulations: by those who have determined to reduce it to a minimum. Our economic supremacy may be lost because the country grows more and more full of unprofitable servants."

"I don't know," she replied. "It was John. I shall have to wait up and see." The tone was casual; so casual that Laura went back to her room without another question.
I was just getting into bed when a knock came. It was not Laura's decisive tap, nor Celia's inquiring one.
I threw on a dressing gown and opened the door. Natalie stood there, her tall, slim figure gracefully outlined against the lighted corridor.
"Won't you come in?" I asked mechanically, falteringly. I was amazed.
What could have brought her?
"May I?" she smiled droopily. "No, I won't sit down"—as I snapped on the lights and indicated a chair—"I just wanted to say something to you.
I couldn't sleep until I did. I want to apologize to you, to tell you that I spoke in haste about that—lost ruby.
I'm sorry. I know that you couldn't possibly have done such a thing.
couldn't possibly. I made a frightful mistake. I shall also apologize to Mrs. Hazard. Do you believe me?"
She suddenly put out a slim hand, and I remembered the time when I was adrift and that hand had been a protecting one. A little wave of friendliness swept over me.
"Yes, I believe you," I replied. "You are very kind to come and tell me so."
"Let us be friends, Miss Codman," she drawled. Her cool hand touched mine. "I think you dislike me, but we'll change that if you will. We missed you tonight. There wasn't just the usual cheerful order of things. Everybody was ill-assorted, aggressive and argumentative. I hope you will not be ill again. We can't spare you. Well, goodnight." She melted to the door. "I lost my head this afternoon, or I should never have said what I did. Do you sincerely forgive me?"
"Yes," I replied. "Goodnight."
She regarded me for a moment, through half-closed lids, as if I had agreed too readily, then her lips parted in a smile.
"Goodnight," she repeated cheerfully.
I crept into bed wondering, bewildered, and lay there for a long time staring wild-eyed, questioningly into the darkness. Why this apology?
What had caused Natalie to change her mind?
Just how long I had been asleep I don't know, but suddenly I found myself sitting up in bed, conscious that a door had opened and closed, conscious, too, that some one was in the room.
My hand flew to the button beside my bed; I had to know the extent of my danger!
The lights flashed. The person who stood there was Hap, blinking in the sudden glare of the light, looking comically surprised and rather disheveled in a most becoming yellow dressing gown. The situation would have been embarrassing if I had not been so scared.
"I beg your pardon," he managed to say. "I really beg your pardon." He turned, jerked at the door, and was gone. I jumped out of bed, turned the key in every lock, and sank in a heap to the floor. The day had been too much for me.

CHAPTER XVII.
The Woman in the Corridor.
The insistent rattle of gravel on the screen woke me. I arose, put on the white flannel, tied the ribbon around my head with fingers that were far from steady, and picked up my racket.
The tennis was going to be a farce.
My wrists were limp, my shoulders like lead, my head chaos. Out of the chaos persisted one thought. But I tried not to ponder too much on that adventure of the night before until Hap had had a chance to explain.
He was tapping the balls into the air as I came across the strip of lawn.
He met me half way.
"I've an explanation to make before we begin," he said.
"We are not certain now," he pointed out. "But something is wrong, queer. I want you to keep mum about it. I'm going to investigate."
"Ah, Monsieur Lecoq!" I taunted.
"Don't laugh. I'm quite serious about it. I have all sorts of theories."
"If you are quite serious about it you ought to have all sorts of a detective," I suggested.
"One is coming, but it isn't going to keep me from doing a little work on my own hook. A detective might find a gang planted here among the servants; I might find the chief at the dinner table. Fascinating, isn't it?"
"Horrible!" I declared.
"Perhaps Natalie's ruby was stolen after all," he mused. He began pacing again. "I thought she was crazy, for
why would a thief take one jewel and leave the others? I'm not so sure now but that she is right. We no doubt have a charming creature in our midst with a delightful sense of humor."
"And you are going to unearth her?"
He sat down again and looked at
me intently.
"Are you losing the main point?"
he demanded. "You must be cleared
of suspicion, you know."
"Oh!" I exclaimed. "I am no longer suspected. Miss Agazziz came
to my room last night and said she
was sure I hadn't taken her ruby;
that she realized I couldn't possibly
have done such a thing, couldn't possibly."
"Well, I'll be —!" He stared at
me. "What happened to make her
change her mind?"
"I don't know," I answered. "She
didn't give me the impression that anything had happened. She was quite calm and cool as she always is,
and she was rather friendly."
He brushed the forelock out of his
eyes, and regarded me for a while
with that comically surprised expression of his. Then he laughed.
"You'll excuse me," he said, "but
the thing is funny. Wait a minute!
Let me think! She heard about Winthrop."
"I'm sure she didn't," I assured
him. "I don't see how she could have heard. No one knew it but myself
until that message came for your
mother. Your mother talked to Mr.
Crownsfield from her own room.
It's her own private number, as you
know, and has no possible connection with the other phone. The conversation revealed nothing, even if any one
had been listening at the door. Laura did not guess, and you know how keen
she is. Miss Agazziz came in soon

SAGE TEA WILL
DARKEN THE HAIR
Restore Faded and Gray Hair to Natural Color—Dandruff Quickly Removed.
There is nothing new about the idea of using Sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our grandmothers kept their hair dark, glossy and abundant by the use of a simple "Sage Tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of Sage leaves, and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect.
Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the tea. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves; and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product, Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, containing Sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy.
This preparation gives youthful color and beauty to the hair, and is one of the best remedies you can use for dandruff, dry, feverish, itching scalp, and falling hair. Get a fifty cent bottle from your druggist today, and you will be surprised at the quick results. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented.

A QUICK RELIEF
FOR HAY FEVER
A Simple, Safe, Inexpensive Treatment Relieves All Distressing Symptoms.
Do you suffer for weeks every Summer with Hay Fever or Rose Cold? If you do, just get a fifty cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist, and see how quickly you will get relief. In five minutes after applied that stuffed-up feeling in the head will be gone, the pain and soreness in the back of the throat relieved, and the sneezing and running at the nose stopped.
Moreover, this remedy does not simply give you temporary relief, but heals and strengthens the weakened, inflamed membranes lining of the nose and throat, making it less susceptible to dust, dampness and certain odors, which generally bring on the fits of sneezing and weeping.
Don't suffer any longer, and don't experiment with strong snuffs, powders and sprays which aggravate the trouble, but try this simple, sensible treatment. If you are not satisfied after fair trial, your druggist will give back your money.

after all," he mused. He began pacing
again. "I thought she was crazy, for
why would a thief take one jewel and
leave the others? I'm not so sure
now but that she is right. We no
doubt have a charming creature in our
midst with a delightful sense of hu-
mor."
"And you are going to unearth her?"
He sat down again and looked at
me intently.
"Are you losing the main point?"
he demanded. "You must be cleared
of suspicion, you know."
"Oh!" I exclaimed. "I am no longer suspected. Miss Agazziz came
to my room last night and said she
was sure I hadn't taken her ruby;
that she realized I couldn't possibly
have done such a thing, couldn't possibly."
"Well, I'll be —!" He stared at
me. "What happened to make her
change her mind?"
"I don't know," I answered. "She
didn't give me the impression that
anything had happened. She was
quite calm and cool as she always is,
and she was rather friendly."
He brushed the forelock out of his
eyes, and regarded me for a while
with that comically surprised expression of his. Then he laughed.
"You'll excuse me," he said, "but
the thing is funny. Wait a minute!
Let me think! She heard about Win-
throp."
"I'm sure she didn't," I assured
him. "I don't see how she could have
heard. No one knew it but myself
until that message came for your
mother. Your mother talked to Mr.
Crownsfield from her own room.
It's her own private number, as you
know, and has no possible connection
with the other phone. The conversation revealed nothing, even if any one
had been listening at the door. Laura
did not guess, and you know how keen
she is. Miss Agazziz came in soon after, but she couldn't know."

"I believe she did know."
"You're rather strange in your belief, aren't you? Whatever else Natalie is she isn't a hypocrite," I defended. "You ought not to be too hard on her, remembering that once you—"
"Once I made a fool of myself," he interrupted. "We're going to forget all about that, you and I, aren't we?"
"Yes," I replied; then after a moment. "We are going to forget all about everything, you and I."
"Except that we love each other."
"We are going to forget that," I said firmly.
"I have another strange belief," he smiled. "I believe I'm going to marry
you."
There was no use answering. I picked up two tennis balls and started for the other end of the court. But it's just my sex to have the last word.
I looked back over my shoulder.
"And I believe you're going to make some girl an argumentative husband,"
I said very, very sweetly.
He opened his lips to reply, smiled, changed his mind and swung his racket into position.
"Ready!" he called.

WARNING GIVEN AGAINST CURES

State Condemns Sale of Advertised Fakes.

ARE WORSE THAN USELESS

Paying Particular Attention to the False and Misleading Advertisements of Manufacturers of So-Called Consumption "Cures," State Board of Health Has Prepared a Bulletin Exposing Such Nostrums.

Indianapolis, Aug. 30.—W. D. McAbee, drug chemist of the state board of health, has completed a part of the forthcoming bulletin from the office of the state food and drug commissioner, which deals with and condemns so-called consumption cures and warns sufferers from this disease against the purchase of "cures" which are oftentimes advertised for sale in glowing terms. The bulletin says:

"The despondent condition of the victims of the white plague renders them easily susceptible to the alluring advertisements which assure them of a positive cure, although their physicians have told them that no medicine can possibly help, and that the only cure is open air, quiet and a wholesome diet. The manufacturers of these so-called consumption cures have done much to increase the death rate from tuberculosis by their assurance that their 'dope' will cure, thereby causing the patient to neglect the mode of living necessary for recovery."

The bulletin gives the analysis of a number of these nostrums, which are extensively advertised and sold at an enormous profit to the manufacturer, and points out wherein the use of the so-called cures does much more harm than good to the sufferer.

BROKE OUT OF HOUSE

Stole Employer's Table and Had to Take Off Door to Get It Out.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 30.—William Courtney, a coal wagon driver, stole a $45 mission dining room table from the home of his employer, James H. Loughman. The owner and his family were away from home and Courtney removed the front door of the house from its hinges to get the table out of the building. He pushed it in front of him to his home, a mile away, where he cut it into kindling wood the next morning when he learned the police were on his trail. He had burned the bulk of it when detectives found him. Courtney confessed and has been bound over to the grand jury for burglary. One of the most unusual features of the case is that he may go to the penitentiary, not for breaking into a house, but for breaking out, as he had to remove the front door to get the table out of the house. Courtney is married, has a large family, and went to prison ten years ago for a crime of much the same nature.

Lapel Youths in Jail.
 Anderson, Ind., Aug. 30.—Lowell Ehrman and Raymond Goetz, young men of Lapel, have been arrested on a charge of petit larceny. They are accused of entering the home of Mrs. Juanita Roubush, at Lapel, and after stealing watches and other small articles, sprinkling ink over everything, tearing down lace curtains, destroying furniture and breaking dishes. The young men are in jail.

A Boy and a Gun.
 Logansport, Ind., Aug. 30.—Lawrence Copeland, eighteen years old, jammed the butt of his repeating rifle on the ground in an effort to jar into place a cartridge which had stuck in the magazine. The gun exploded and the bullet struck the youth under the jaw and lodged in the brain. The boy became delirious and it took three men to hold him in the ambulance on the way to the hospital, where he died.

No Appointment at Present.
 Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 30.—Trustees of the Indiana School for Feeble-Minded Youth have decided that for the present they will appoint no successor to Superintendent Albert E. Carroll, who died a few days ago, but will take over the active management of the institution until there has been time for deliberation regarding the new superintendent.

Carried Out Her Threat.
 Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 30.—Harold Sewell, aged forty, was shot and probably fatally wounded by his wife at their home in West Lafayette. Sewell had been away from home several days and his wife had threatened to kill him when he returned. She fired two shots as he came in the door and one took effect in his abdomen.

Will Consolidate Plants.
 Columbus, Ind., Aug. 30.—The Citizens' Telephone company of this city has bought all of the physical property of the Central Union Telephone company in Columbus and Bartholomew county. The two plants will be consolidated.

Wiley to Speak in Indiana.
 Indianapolis, Aug. 30.—Dr. H. W. Wiley, former government chemist, will spend five days campaigning in Indiana for the Democrats.

MISS JULIA C. LATHROP.

Named by the President as Head of Children's Bureau.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Miss Julia O. Lathrop, chief of the new children's bureau, has taken up temporary headquarters in the department of commerce and labor, preparatory to organizing the bureau office staff and working forces. With the passage of the legislative appropriation bill salaries for officers became available and the chief bar to commencing work was removed. Miss Lathrop has already selected an assistant, private secretary and statistician.

SOUTH CAROLINIANS TELL EDITOR TO "GIT"

They Didn't Like One of His Political Editorials.

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 30.—The citizens of Anderson, resenting what they believed an insinuation against the womanhood of South Carolina, issued an ultimatum to Colonel William Banks, editor of the local afternoon paper, that he leave the city before tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The ultimatum followed a turbulent gathering, brought about by an editorial in which it was stated that of the virtuous womanhood of South Carolina 85 per cent were for Ira B. Jones for governor. This was taken as an insult to the wives of those supporting Blease and led up to the demonstration. Editor Banks has disavowed any reflection on the women, but Blease supporters say he must leave or take the consequences.

Governor Blease may yet fail of the governorship of this state, even though he has a majority of about 2,000, for there is strong probability that the state Democratic committee may throw out enough returns to cause the nomination of Judge Ira B. Jones. The state chairman, former Governor John G. Evans of Spartansburg, has received reports from all parts of the state of wholesale fraud in the election, and when the state committee meets these protested votes will be considered. It is considered that the total vote is out of all proportion to the state's population and that a recount will be ordered.

He Will Appeal Case.
 Crawfordsville, Ind., Aug. 30.—Wilbur G. Houk, attorney of this city, a strong advocate of socialism, was fined 1 cent and costs, making $25.01 in all, on a charge of obstructing the sidewalk. Houk was arguing politics in front of a hotel and a large crowd gathered to hear him. He will appeal to the circuit court.

plan of his boyhood days which was used in locating a marble during a game—spit in the palm of his hand, hit it with his finger and follow the largest bubble.

As it has been in many a game of marbles, this practice was successful in this emergency. The largest bubble flew off northeast, and the party set out in that direction. It was then three-thirty o'clock, and they had almost given up. But their superstition was aroused by the "spit-in-the-hand" plan and they traveled northeast with renewed vigor. In an hour they saw the glimmer of a lake in the distance and felt then that they were saved.

They discovered afterwards that the point on the lake shore they first reached was fifteen miles from the place they had moored their boat to start on the day's tramp. They estimated that they walked at least twenty miles.

Miss Meredith visited the Rev. and Mrs. T. H. McConnell, former residents of Rushville when the Rev. McConnell was pastor of the First Presbyterian church. They have a cottage at Three Lakes, Wisconsin, and Miss Meredith has been their guest for almost two months. She says the Wisconsin climate is delightful even though the nights are very cold.

McGREGOR IS SOLD AGAIN

Horse "Made" by John Dagler Brings Season Price.

Baldy McGregor, the very promising stallion which George Dougan, proprietor of the Riedston stock farm, sold a few weeks ago to John Madden for $7,500 and half of his winnings on the grand circuit this year, was sold last week by Madden to a West Virginian for $12,000, according to unofficial reports received by local horsemen. The first reports were that the animal brought $40,000. The horse is one of the best blooded on the turf and has been doing so well that his reputation already has been made. He was found and trained by John Dagler, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dagler of this city, and much credit has been given the Rushville boy for the horse's showing.

Russia occupies one-sixth of the territorial surface of the globe.

LOCAL TRAINERS TAKE 2 OUT OF 4

Rushville Drivers Win Half of Races on Thursday Speed Card at Shelby County Fair.

HARRIE JONES IN TWO EVENTS

Two of the four races on the speed card at the Shelby county blue ribbon fair yesterday were won by Rushville drivers. Harrie Jones negotiated the triek in the 2:15 trot with Catherine R. and Scott Brannan won the three-year-old pace with Show Me, a Charley Hayt colt who was unable to get better than second money in the three-year-old pace at the Rush county fair last week. Show Me finished third in the first heat, which was in 2:19½, and came back and won the next two heats. The second one was in slow time, 2:30¾, and the third in 2:19¼. Catherine R won three straight heats in 2:21¼, 2:16¼ and 2:18¼. Chatsky, who raced here Thursday of the fair and divided second and third money with John Dagler's horse, Ruth Randall, won second in this race. Harrie Jones' horse, Amy Roundwood finished fourth in the three-year-old pace. Roscoe Tittsworth of Noble township expected to start his green pacer, Ruby T. at Shelbyville today.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR GEN. BOOTH

Union Meeting to be Held Sunday Afternoon in Honor of Salvation Army Founder.

AT THE ST. PAUL M. E. CHURCH

A union memorial service of the Protestant churches of the city in honor of General William Booth, the founder of the Salvation Army, who died Tuesday, August 20, will be held in the St. Paul M. E. church Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. All of the churches of the city will join in the service to do honor to the venerable old man.

A program for the meeting has been prepared. It will be opened with a prayer by the Rev. W. H. Wyllie, pastor of the M. E. church, and this will be followed by a selection by a male quartet. Mrs. A. W. Posey, director of the Methodist church choir, will be in charge of the music. Mrs. Envoy Sparks, wife of the captain of the local corps, will read the scripture, and while the offering is being taken, B. F. Miller will sing a solo. An address by the officer in charge, Capt. ### HIS JERSEYS IN THE LISTS

John F. Boyd, proprietor of Riverside Stock farm in Jersey City, is home from the Shelbyville, Kentucky fair where he exhibited a large herd of his Jersey cattle this week at the fair. He also had a herd at the Shelby county fair in Indiana. At the latter place he won seven firsts and four seconds. He will exhibit at the State fair next week.

Shelby county, Kentucky is known as the "Jersey Isle of the United States," Mr. Boyd says, and it would be expected that he would have some warm competition there. A total of $1445 was offered in premiums in the Jersey class and there were fourteen exhibitors with 145 head at the fair.

But Mr. Boyd managed to get away with two firsts, two seconds, five thirds as follows: first with two-year-old heifer—showed against twenty;—first with breeder's young herd, consisting of a bull and four under two years old—there were six young herds to show against;—third with aged bull; third with yearling; third with heifer calf; third with exhibitor's herd of aged animals; third with get of sire, consisting of four animals; second with bull under one year of age and second with produce of cow.

"And, gentlemen of the jury, you'll have to give them credit for making everything possible out of the case," said Mr. Barnes.

He told the jury that it was their duty to determine whether one side was true or false. When he used the word true in this statement he pointed to the State's side of the court room and to the defense's side when he used the word false. This was done either unconsciously or with an attempt to work upon the minds of the jurymen by suggestion.
